"Foreigners First," Democratic Policy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15, 1915. It is altogether probable that Democratic leaders in the coming session of Congress will call some of the administrative department heads to account for the manner in which government appropriations have been expended. This administration has thrown itself open to just criticism in so many instances and in such important particulars that Democratic Congressmen will find embarrassment in defending the party record in their 1916 campaigns, and they do not relish the predicament in which they are unwillingly placed.

It is not merely extravagance that has put the Democratic party in bad standing before the country. If the money were merely wasted, doing nobody harm, there would be sufficient grounds for criticism, but when the administration uses the money and offices of the American people against the interests of our own countrymen, the situation is one that invites a degree of censure and rebuke that renders the word "criticism" inadequate.

The recent example of the Department of Commerce issuing a statement to the press boasting that it had aided Swiss manufacturers in securing orders for toys in America is a case in point. While American toy manufacturers are employing salesmen to place their goods in their own home market, the Department lent the aid of government employees to the marketing of Swiss goods in this country in competition with the American product. As an illustration of the Democratic idea of "America First," this is a shining example that has probably never been surpassed. The nearest approach to it was the removal of the sugar duty at the request of men who openly admitted they expected such action to drive American producers out of business.

With an administration preaching "America First" and practicing "Switzerland First," the Democratic spell-binder of 1916 is certain to have a sorry time. He will have an embarrassing time of it when some native born American citizen stands up in the audience and asks the candidate to explain this feature of Democratic administration—a policy maintained at a time when the Department of Labor is sending out bulletins showing a very large number of unemployed in practically every city in the United States.

In these days of organization for mutual cooperation, every city has its Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade for the purpose of promoting local commercial interests, to encourage the development of local industries and invite new enterprises to begin operations in the local field. All these organizations urge a policy expressed by the phrase, "Patronize Home Industries." Every local merchant, banker, and mechanic preaches the doctrine. Every newspaper gives columns of space to arguments designed to induce its readers to buy from local merchants. It is sound economic sense for the community, for the county, for the State and for the nation.

Naturally, it is a severe shock to people who have contributed of their hard earned money to build up this sentiment, when they see Government officials using government money to foster Swiss industries. Not that the American people have any prejudice whatever against Swiss toys. Far from it. But the loyal American has an intense prejudice in favor of the American article, whether it be a toy or something in the line of daily necessity. And that same loyal American will not stand for insincerity which preaches "America First" and practices "Foreigners First."

Hence the likelihood that the Department of Commerce will be asked to explain itself.

Some of the results of their work will be well worth seeing.

This contest is open to every member of the Girls' Agricultural and Canning Club who will send her exhibit of canned products. This exhibit is to consist of ten glass jars of different fruits or vegetables, giving special emphasis to taking care of waste products on the farm.

A NEW MEXICO CASE TRIED IN MAINE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL: Your correspondent has just returned from a week's stay in Portland, having been summoned to appear in the United States court room as a juror on the 26th day of October. This session of court was an adjournment of the September term for trial of a personal injury case in which Paul Tomljanovich brings suit to recover damages of the Victor American Fuel Co. of Gallup, New Mexico, for damages in the sum of $50,000 because of injuries he received on January 14, 1915, while in the employ of that company, digging coal. One of the cars loaded with coal became detached and rushed down the inclined track where the young man was digging coal and both his hips were broken and he received other injuries. This case could have been tried in the State courts of New Mexico, but as the Victor American Fuel Company was incorporated under the laws of the State of Maine the United States Court of this District had jurisdiction. The plaintiff, by the advice of his counsel, A. F. Hannett of Gallup, New Mexico, and feeling that they might be able to procure a more impartial trial here than in New Mexico, the case was brought here, a distance of three thousand miles. The jury returned a verdict of $19,200 for the plaintiff. Attorney Frederick W. Hinkley of Portland and Judge Caldwell of Denver, Col., were counsel for the defense, and Attorney A. F. Hannett of Gallup, New Mexico, presented the argument for the plaintiff. ALLEN GOODWIN.

UNITY TO HAVE ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

UNITY held a special town meeting Nov. 6th to determine whether or not the town would install electric street lights, and if so the number and their location, and also to elect a school committee to succeed the former committee, the members of which tendered their resignations some time ago. The town voted by but little opposition to have the lights, fixed their number at ten and chose a committee of five, consisting of Walter Bessey, Charles Murch, C. L. Gannett, G. E. Grant and E. D. Chase, to locate them. As school committee, C. S. Cole, T. O. Knight and Harry Waning were chosen to succeed E. D. Chase, J. B. Vickery and E. M. Soule.

HOME ECONOMICS WORK IN MAINE.

During the year ending July 1, 1915, 5,485 people throughout the State were reached by lectures and demonstrations given by representatives of Home Economics from the College of Agriculture, University of Maine. This work was done in cooperation with the Granges, Cow Test Associations, fairs, churches, schools, community meetings and women's clubs and the various State conventions. Among the subjects discussed were the following: Home Economics as a Profession, Food and its Uses, School Lunches, Three Meals a Day, The Convenient Kitchen, Protein in the Diet, Girls' Club Work and Laundering. The demonstrations dealt with Apple Cookery, Use of Left-Overs, Meat Substitutes, Cheese, Meats, Milk and Eggs, Doughs and Batters, Canning.

The work of the department has not been confined merely to lectures and demonstrations, but has included judging at fairs, aid in planning school equipment, correspondence with individual persons wishing advice and information, social service work in the immediate vicinity and school lunches.

The University of Maine is one of the few State institutions conducting a correspondence course in Home Economics. Bulletins dealing with varied phases of the work have been published for general distribution.

One of the features of the year's work was the Women's Section of Farmers' Week, which is held at the University. The registration of women numbered 165 at this meeting.

The work for the year ending July 1, 1915, was carried on by the members of the Home Economics faculty of the University and by the State leader of Girls' Clubs, who is employed by the General Education Board, under the supervision of the Extension Department, to organize and conduct Girls' Club work in this State. All the work is under the supervision of Dean Leon S. Merrill, Director of Extension Work. An extension representative of Home Economics, who has been employed under the Smith-Lever Act, has been added to the above force for the coming year.

In addition to the Extension Work already being done in Home Economics, plans are being made for conducting Extension Schools for Women similar in plan of operation to those in agriculture held during the past two years.

Aroostook Potatoes.

Potatoes have gone at from $1.60 to $1.80 during the past week. From $1.70 to $1.75 is now offered, with $1.80 named as the top-notch figure. They are coming in very slowly, the buyers not being especially anxious to buy, and the farmers not being anxious at all to sell. The quality of the stock is excellent, as usual this season.—Fort Fairfield Review, Nov. 10th.

CAPT. CLARENCE M. CONDON.

Another Maine man has forged, and is still forging, ahead in Uncle Sam's army, as the following very complimentary notice from the San Diego, Cal., News concerning Capt. Clarence M. Condon, whose parents, Melville T. and Clara F. Condon, formerly lived in Brooksville, Hancock county, and now in Litchfield, where they are in trade, will show. The heading says, among other things:

"Captain Condon is one of the most popular army officers ever stationed at San Diego. He has one of the finest records in the United States army, and it is predicted that he will be heard from soon near the top of the army list." The article in full follows:

Captain C. M. Condon, former commander of the 115th company, coast artillery, stationed at Fort Rosecrans, and one of the most popular army officers ever stationed at the local reservation, left yesterday for Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for duty with the military staff college.

Captain Condon is one of the few officers now in active service in the coast artillery corps, who has been graduated from the ranks and who attained his present commission through bravery on foreign battlefields.

He enlisted as a private in Battery G, Third United States Cavalry, in 1894, being promoted to corporal and then to sergeant, serving in 1901 as second lieutenant in the Philippine volunteer cavalry. He remained with this organization throughout the Philippine insurrection. For his remarkable daring and bravery in fighting the Moros in the island of Jolo, Captain Condon was given a congressional medal of honor and the certificate of merit. The former corresponds to the Victoria cross of Great Britain, the legion of honor of France and the iron cross of Germany.

Following the suppression of the insurrection in the Philippines, Captain Condon served for several months with the Philippine scouts and then returned to the United States. He was graduated from the artillery school in 1904 and from the army school of the line in 1913.

A CHRISTMAS CUSTOM THAT SHOULD BE REVIVED.

"Old, very old in England," we read in the December issue of the Woman's Home Companion, "is the custom of setting lighted candles in the windows on Christmas Eve to give holiday greeting to the passer-by, but little use has been made of this charming idea in our country. Baltimore, however, has had a city-wide lighting of candles which was so successful that it is repeated every year.

"Weeks before Christmas, when plans were being made for the Community Tree, it was suggested that each household set lighted candles in the parlor windows to wish 'Merry Christmas' to their fellow townspeople, not even the most enthusiastic supporter of the Candle Greeting expected to see half the number of windows that were so lighted when Christmas Eve came.

"Scarcely a city block in any section of the city was without at least one illumination, and it was not rare to see every house in a row brightened by this evidence of 'peace on Earth, good will to men.' It warmed the very cockles of one's heart to walk through street after street with these silent Christmas greetings everywhere, and no one who has gone through such experience could ever want to know another Christmas Eve without them."

PROMOTION WON BY BRADBURY F. CUSHING.

Bradbury F. Cushing, whose appointment to the post of manager of the Hotel Green, Pasadena, Calif., was mentioned in the Hotel Review a couple of weeks ago, has many friends in New England who congratulate him upon his promotion to the post so ably filled by David B. Plumer during previous seasons. Although born in Lynn, Mass., Mr. Cushing soon found his way to Boston, where he served for a time as steward and room clerk from 1901 to 1905. From Boston he went to the Poland Spring Hotel as chief clerk and later became the personal representative of the company.

In 1911 Mr. Cushing became manager during the season of the Pine Grove Springs Hotel, Lake Spafford, N. H., where he has been found every summer since. In 1914 he went to Pasadena and became assistant to Mr. Plumer during the winter season, and when the latter tendered his resignation at the close of last season Col. Green, proprietor of the Hotel Green, promoted Mr. Cushing to the vacant post.

It is understood that there will be little change in the personnel of the staff at the Green. E. A. Millette, who has been associated with Mr. Cushing at Lake Spafford during the summer, and at the Hotel Green during the winter, for the past four years, will be chief of staff in the American plan building, the similar position in the European plan building being held by D. H. Boise. Mr. Cushing will take most of the staff from Pine Grove Springs to California with him.

It is planned to open the European plan section of the hotel on November 1st and the American plan section two weeks later.—Hotel Review, Oct. 9th.

AS I SHALL WISH.

Another year, beloved, has just lapsed
Into the silence of the voiceless past;
Another birthday dawns and this, perhaps,
By earthly reckoning may be your last.
Should this be so, and if I surely knew
That ere another twelvemonth I should stand Alone and sorrowful, yet glad that you
Were safe and happy in the heavenly land,
How I should prize the precious hours so few,
In which our souls could sweet communion take!
How every burden borne for you!
How cheerful every service for your sake!
Though heart were breaking, you should never lack
For glow of sunshine in my face each hour;
All harsh and hasty speech I would hold back,
And tenderness should be your daily dower.
Within that golden time, how selfishness
To loving sacrifices would yield the way!
My constant aim would be to help and bless,
And prayer for you my greatest joy each day.
But since, beloved, it doth not yet appear
Whether our pathways shortly shall divide,
Or whether, in God's mercy, one more year
We shall in earthly fellowship abide,
I will begin, on this birthday morn,
To speak, and serve, and sacrifice, and pray,
As I shall wish I had, when you are gone
From clinging arms and longing eyes away.

RURAL ROAD WORK.

Questions to Rural Communities for the Construction and Maintenance of Roads. That full value may be received for money appropriated for road purposes and that the best results obtainable may be secured it is essential that the right man shall be placed in charge of road work. He should be selected only because he actually knows about good roads than any other person in the community, but also because he can get the best results from money furnished. It is not sufficient, however, to let the matter rest with the selection of a road overseer. He should receive the whole-hearted support of the community in the work. It should be seen that under the conditions and the money furnished the community is getting what it has a right to expect in the way of road improvement. It is not to be understood that if any man is an incompetent man is placed in charge of the work the responsibility rests upon the community. There should be no other consideration, therefore, in selecting a road overseer than securing a man with the ability to perform the duties required. It should be realized that good roads have much to do with the prosperity of a community and that the right direction and the surest and quickest way to secure where the road overseer has had but little experience in road work, or where the new and difficult problem is presented to the experienced man, the Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering of the department, when requested, will offer advice and suggestions for carrying on the work and how best to overcome the difficulties.

To secure a satisfactory road of any kind it is absolutely necessary to regulate, first, drainage; second, drainage, and third, drainage. The earth properly cared for, will answer satisfactorily for the traffic of many sections that can not afford the best types of roads; but the earth road is well drained. After this fact is understood, two other requirements must be taken up—the location of the road and the reduction of grades to an average of 5 per cent.

In the exception of sandy roads, which are easiest for traveling when all roads must have proper side ditches to carry away the surface water. In order to lead this surface water to the ditch, the road surface must have a slope or rounded road, highest in the center and sloping toward the side ditches. A very easy and satisfactory way to keep earth, clay, and gravel from being washed away by the water is to have the road surface water to the side ditches. A very easy and satisfactory way to keep earth, clay, and gravel from being washed away by the water is to have the road surface water to the side ditches.

After the road has been crowned and crowned is kept in condition by the use of the road drag, it should be so that ditches are kept free from weeds, etc., and that they are deep enough to carry off the water which runs into them. In most cases a wide, shallow ditch is best. Deep ditches are dangerous to traffic. At spaces of every hundred feet along the roadway a ditch of some kind should be placed far away from the water which has gathered in the ditches.

After the road has been properly built generally will have an average grade of more than 5 per cent. By "per cent of grade" is meant the number of feet the road rises for every 100 feet of its length. On a road of 1 per cent grade the road will rise 1 foot for every 100 feet they travel.

It has been found that when a horse pulls a full load on level ground he will pull only one-half that load on a 10 per cent grade, and only one fourth that load on a 20 per cent grade. More must be made to and from market roads, with just one bad hill in order to pull the same amount of load that can be pulled on a trip on a level road.

Section 220 of the Department of Agriculture contains pictures of small models of good roads, some of which might be very helpful in understanding the construction of a road. One model illustrates the uses of the different kinds of roads, and the other shows the relocation of a road. A steep hill in the old road has been avoided by relocating the road around the foot of the hill, saving the horses many a hard pull.

Relocating the road may be explained at first cost, but very often the community many times over the cost of labor, time, horses, and equipment.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A CLOSE BUYER.

"That Benjah Sogberry," remarked Uncle Obed Gurney judiciously, "ain't likely to get the wust of a trade, I reckon—not unless he has some disease ketch him that'll spile his faculties."

"Aunt Nettie, his wife, sniffed audibly. 'It'll be a pretty serious disease, I guess, that'll fix Benjah so he won't get the better of a trade,' she said."

Uncle Obed pinched his chin between his finger and thumb, and appeared to debate the matter for a moment.

"Yes'm, I guess, you're right," he conceded heartily. "T'ny rate, Benjah had all the gifts in the way of snugglin' that he started out in life with at four o'clock this afternoon, for I set there in Webley's store and watched him put 'em into action."

"Benjah sidled into the store and edged up to the counter kind of sly,—you know he can't come straight up to anything,—and he asked Webley what flour was sellin' for, fust. Not that he had any idea of buyin' a spoonful of flour, but that's his way."

"Fin'ly, after he'd found out what the price of 'bout everything in the store was, he worked round to eggs. 'What you gettin' for eggs now, Webley?' says he, and Webley told him he was askin' eighteen cents."

"Wal—uh—huh," says Benjah, clearing his throat, 'ain't ye jest a mite high-priced? Eggs hev ben goin' at seventeen cents f'r a week or more, now!'"

"Benjah was lookin' down at his feet, the way he always does when he's tryin' to treat a p'uson on a trade, so Webley kind of grinnin' at him and sayin' 'he but he answered Benjah civil 'nough."

"Wal, Mr. Sogberry," says he, "I guess you'll allow that a cent a dozen's little 'nough for me to make on eggs,—and I gave seventeen cents for them eggs in trade,—and I don't see how I'm goin' to get out of it with less I charge you eighteen."

"If there's any place handy where you c'n get 'em for seventeen, mebbe that'd be the best place for you to trade for 'em," he says.

"Benjah kind of studied on it a minute, and then he says, 'Tain't the eighteen cents so much, but I like to buy where I c'n buy for the least money,' he says."

"I can get 'em for seventeen down to Crawford's, but it's the best place for a mile down there, and I ain't got the time to go now, and I'd know but what I'll have to get 'em here and pay you your price," he says.

"So he obeyed opened a bag and stepped 'long to the egg crate. 'Bout how many, Mr. Sogberry?' says he."

"Benjah hesitated a mite, sort of turnin' it over in his mind, apparently. 'Wal,' he says, 'a half a dozen all I'd have got if I'd gone down to Crawford's; gimme half a dozen,'"

"Wal, ma'am," Webley laughed right out in Sogberry's face, and so did Wanda. "You've got it, and we couldn't help it, none of us."

"Wal, Mr. Sogberry," Webley says, 'for a minute I thought I'd sort of got the best of you for once, but I see now that it ain't much use to try that. If you'd gone down to Crawford's and bought eggs for seventeen cents, I'd have sold you 'em for eighteen cents, and that would have made a half dozen cost you nine cents. You bought 'em here for eighteen, and half of eighteen's nine,—and there you be!'"

"You're gettin' 'em here jest as cheap as you would down at Crawford's, no matter if my price is higher'n his,"

LINER ANCONA TORPEDOED

By an Austrian Submarine. Lifeboats Fired Upon by the Submarine.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. About twenty-seven Americans are believed to have been lost with the torpedoing of the Ancona, according to a cable to the State Department tonight from Ambassador Page at Rome. The ambassador said the probable victims were Alexander Patattivo, his wife and four children of New York and Mrs. Frances Mascolo Lamura, and about 20 unnamed third class passengers.

Cecil L. Griel was named as the one known American survivor among the passengers.

Rome, Nov. 10. How many persons lost their lives in the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona by a submarine in the Adriatic, has not been definitely ascertained, but latest advices from Naples say that 320 survivors have been landed at Tunis ports and 50 at Malta. The number of passengers on the Ancona is placed at 482 and the crew has been estimated at variously from 60 to 160.

The Ancona carried boats for the accommodation of 2500 persons, and it was found that some of the boats are still afloat and may bring in additional survivors in the next 24 hours.

The Ancona was torpedoed Tuesday morning and a Tunis dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia gives a dramatic though brief account of the attack.

"A submarine approached the Ancona towards noon," says his account, "and as soon as the steamer saw it, an attempt was made to escape at full speed. The Ancona was overtaken and stopped. Then the submarine fired on the Ancona, sinking her amid the desperate cries of the passengers."

"The lifeboats were next attacked, the submarine firing on them. A woman, a man and two children were killed; their bodies are at Bizerta."

"The submarine then disappeared immediately, proceeding probably in the direction of the Aegean sea."

SELECT SEED BEANS.

Secure Clean Seed to Avoid Losses from Disease—Pick Out Pods Free from Spots.

Bean growers who would avoid a repetition next year of the heavy losses from disease suffered this season are advised by the department to give their personal attention to the immediate selection of a stock of seed beans free from disease infection. They should select the seed beans in the pod and not after thrashing.

They should simply pick the pods that are free from all spots, save and thresh separately. The planting of infected seed is primarily responsible for the troubles experienced. Weather conditions greatly influence the subsequent development of disease, but clean seed on clean land will go far toward giving a clean crop even in a season like the present, which has been exceptionally favorable to the development of disease and unfavorable to the growth of the bean crop.

Two bean diseases are commonly prevalent, anthracnose and bacterial blight. Both attack and spot the pods, penetrate them, and enter the beans, remaining dormant over winter under the seed coats, where they cannot be reached by disinfectants.

When the beans are planted these diseases attack the young seedlings, causing a root rot and blighting of stem and leaves, and if the weather is cool and wet they spread again to the pods. Bacterial blight is conveyed by wind and other means to a greater extent than anthracnose and is less easily controlled, but clean seed and crop rotation will give best results. Old bean ground should not be replanted next year.

As far as possible each farmer should save his own seed from his own farm. Beans have been so generally affected by disease that the farmer should not rely on ordinary so-called northern-grown seed or elevator stock for planting. If he has to buy seed, he should make certain that it has been selected from disease-free pods. Examine all threshed seeds carefully, and if it shows suspicious spots or other evidence of disease it should not be used. Home selection, also, will tend to build up a strain adapted to the locality and better than seed brought from a distance.

A survey just completed shows that there are fields in all parts of the bean States where clean pods, or even plants with all the pods clean, may be found, though some fields are hopelessly affected. The farmer who expects to continue bean growing—and this valuable crop should not be abandoned because of this year's discouraging experience—should pick enough clean pods to plant his next crop, or at least a large seed plot. These should be shelled by hand and carefully stored. If the quantity is small, it would be well to plant by hand two beans every 12 or 15 inches in ordinary rows in a separate seed plot.

There should be organized effort on the part of county agents, bean dealers and community leaders to have all available clean seed saved for local use and not sold with the general crop. This must be done before the beans are threshed.—News Letter U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

AFTER YOU ARE FORTY

Forty is the age of greatest effort with most people. Vitality is used up at the most rapid pace. The struggle to secure a competence for old age produces nerve strain, the failure to succeed causes worry, nervous breakdown, neurasthenia.

Middle-aged people find that they cannot run as fast, nor are they as agile as the youth. The internal organs also feel the effect of age. The digestion resents things that it accepted before, the heart palpitates on slight exertion, the muscles of the back ache after a day's work. Your blood is thinner and not so bright a red as formerly.

When these things occur, whether you are nineteen or forty, you need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people, because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. They are certainly worthy of a trial in every case of weak nerves and thin blood.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklets on the blood and nerves.

FAMOUS MONOMOY NO MORE.

A locally famous yacht, the cat-sloop Monomoy, has been stricken from the register by fire which destroyed the boat at Colter's yard, Dorchester, last week. The Monomoy was built in 1894 by Small Brothers to demonstrate that a properly designed and handled craft built of cat type is suitable for long voyages with a moderate-sized crew and maximum of comfort. The Monomoy appears to have demonstrated her worth for she went to Cuba and had carried her several owners where they wished without fuss or inconvenience. This bulky boat was 37.5 feet over all, 29.8 feet waterline, 13 feet beam and 3.2 feet draught.—Boston Herald.

Before the Monomoy made the trip to Cuba she cruised along the Maine coast, with her owners and builders, the Small Brothers, on board and visited Belfast, anchoring just below the steamer wharf.

GUPPILL AND EMBREE

Have a Tilt Before Governor and Council. [Special Dispatch to the Boston Globe.]

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 10. Commissioner of Agriculture William T. Guppill and C. E. Embree, manager and promoter of the Farmers' Unions throughout the State, had a lively tilt before Gov. Curtis and Council today, each accusing the other of trying to hamper his undertakings.

The controversy grew out of the request from Commissioner Guppill that Mr. Embree, who is chief of the Bureau of Market and Supplies in the Department of Agriculture, show him all contracts he had made for supplies, which Mr. Embree refused to do. Accordingly Commissioner Guppill had Mr. Embree appear before the Governor and Council.

It developed that Mr. Embree receives $25 a week salary from the State and also pay from the Farmers' Unions, although Mr. Embree did not call this a salary, but presents. He said he had a present of $300 last year and one of $300 this year, and was also presented a gold watch and chain by the Farmers' Unions.

"Do you think it morally wrong to receive this salary from the State and also to take a salary, or what practically amounts to a salary, from the Farmers' Unions?" asked Councilor Scates.

"No, I do not, and I could not afford to do this work at less pay," said Mr. Embree.

Mr. Embree's office is in a grain store in Waterville.

"Ever since the 16th of June, so much commotion has arisen about Mr. Embree, I have tried to find out about some of the contracts he has executed," said Commissioner Guppill. "Since that time Mr. Embree has kept away from the office and I have been unable to find out whether or not he was working for my department. I understand that in Waterville he has been soliciting trade among the Farmers' Unions for a grain concern."

"I do not consider that the contracts should be shown to the Commissioner of Agriculture, especially those dealing strictly with the Farmers' Unions, and the board of directors so voted," said Mr. Embree.

Mr. Guppill wrote me that, if I wanted to hold my job I better show the contracts. Commissioner Guppill went to Springfield, where there was a meeting of the farmers, and told them there was a great uprising among the farmers in Maine over the way I was conducting the unions.

"I don't say any such thing," shouted Commissioner Guppill.

"He further told the farmers that he understood I was getting commissions from the various fertilizer companies, getting a salary from the State, another from the Farmers' Unions and that I had a son in Boston who was in the distributing business and that gradually he and I would take over all the farming business in Maine," said Mr. Embree.

"Do you consider you have administered your duties in connection with the Agricultural Department, Mr. Embree?" asked Councilor Cunningham.

"I do, up to last June," said Mr. Embree.

"You have never consulted Commissioner Guppill about your duties have you?"

"No, I have not."

"There has been a feeling of unrest about Embree for some time," said Mr. Guppill, "and I have been getting a number of letters asking about him and his methods. I have allowed him to draw his salary since the 15th of June without his raising a finger to help the State Department."

"Would you want to have your work taken away from the supervision of the State Department of Agriculture?" asked Gov. Curtis.

"I would until there is a different man at the head of it," replied Mr. Embree. No definite action was taken by the Governor and Council.

NO EXTREME CLIPPERS FROM BATH

Although Bath, Maine, in times gone by has been one of the most active wooden shipbuilding cities of the United States, there was never, as far as known, an extreme clipper ship launched from its yards. Many clipper ships were built in Boston, New York and Baltimore, and their speed records have in many cases never been exceeded in vessels propelled by sail. Bath shipbuilders constructed vessels for practical men, owners as well as masters, home folks largely, who had good uses for the money they earned, consequently they knew better than to sacrifice cargo space for speed, therefore their ships were built on fuller lines. The short period for which the clipper ships were famous proved that this was a wiser course, as with the advent of steam the sailing vessel that could hold its own was not so much the speedy one as the more useful and profitable model which retained large cargo capacity.

Several clippers, however, were built in the Bath customs district, among them being the Wild W. ve, in Richmond in 1853; also the Pride of America, in the same town and year, and among others the Young Mechanic, built in Thomaston, Maine. The vessel that came the nearest, perhaps, to having a clipper model, launched from a Bath yard, was the Pocahontas, built in 1855. But, while she fulfilled some of the requirements, her model was too "full" to allow her to be classed strictly under the head of these speedy vessels.—The Marine Journal.

Mrs. F. W. Hill of Bangor Leaves $1,000 each to 30 Clubs Members.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 9. By the will of Mrs. Frederick W. Hill, 30 of her friends are left $1000 each. Seventeen of these are from Rockland and vicinity and 13 live in Bangor. Mrs. Hill was a member of the Bangor Monday Club which met for bridge and tea, usually at the Bangor House, where most of the members have apartments and where Mrs. Hill lived. The members of this club were surprised to receive notice of the bequest of Mrs. Hill, which will receive $1000 each: Mrs. Edward E. Lyon, Mrs. E. R. Burpee, Mrs. L. L. Paine, Mrs. M. H. Andrews, Mrs. E. C. Nichols, Mrs. Frank A. Owen, Mrs. Arthur Chapin, Mrs. A. B. Barnard, Mrs. Arthur F. Stetson, Mrs. Bernhardt, Mrs. Henry McLaughlin, Mrs. Harry Thurston and Mrs. Laura French. The members of the Bangor Club at Rockland to which Mrs. Hill belonged, who will receive $1000 each are: Mrs. F. E. Hitchcock, Mrs. S. H. Webb, Mrs. W. T. Cobb, Mrs. W. S. White, Mrs. C. H. Berry, Mrs. F. R. Spear, Mrs. J. H. Wier, Mrs. Lucy Kennedy, Mrs. C. H. Wardell, Camden; Mrs. H. L. Shepley, Rockport; Mrs. Helen B. Smith, Mrs. Emily C. Smith, Mrs. C. A. Leighton and Miss M. J. DARK HARBOR.

David Smith has been to Philadelphia to visit the late owner of the Inn, Dr. Dixon, and it is hoped the Inn will be rebuilt in the near future.

The High school gave a reception at the schoolrooms Saturday evening in honor of the new teacher, Burleigh Rank, who takes the place of Miss Tuttle, who resigned.

Miss Althea Yeaton was recently married in Harshe, Mass. to Mr. E. J. Libby, of Harshe, Mass. They will reside in Old Town this winter, where he is teaching a night school and also taking a course at the U. of M., where he graduated two years ago. Mrs. Libby was a teacher in Carthage. They will visit her home here during the Christmas holidays.

The sewer extension now being built is nearly completed. It has been a big job, owing to so much blasting of ledges. Mr. Wood has completed the job of the new gas links and discharged a crew of men so it is very quiet around here at present. All are looking forward to the building of the Inn, otherwise it will be a dull winter here. The addition being built on the Gibson cottage is nearly complete. It is rumored that the Mitchell cottage will be built this winter, but nothing is certain yet.

forth by the Boston Globe of Saturday last:There are only 15,000 bushels on hand now, and the average daily consumption is 1101 bushels a day. And at that rate the present supply will last 13 days, 13 which means unless the supply is re-sentiments of thousands of bean-eaters, declares that "beans is the topic of the peal:Open the doors of Faneuil Hall to the chusetts called attention to the defenceless condition of this country, and particularly to the unsatisfactory status of both army and navy, his statements were flatly contradicted by the Administra-

Now these same officials are practically admitting that everything Mr. Gardner said was true, and from the President down have become ardent advocates of preparedness. In a public address President Wilson has formulated a plan for national defence which many have pronounced inadequate, while Bryan has squarely taken issue with the President, looks now as though the peace-at-any-would happen later is another story. The the assurance of living to a good old age, as Maine people are in the habit of doing.

But we never hear of an attempt to infat. If nature's milk supply falls short, and there is no feed to take its place, the calf falls off and the baby fat is consumed to supply the needs of nutrition.

This once lost cannot be replaced. The calf may be fed abundantly and get fat again, but the flesh of the animal is never quite the same as it would have been had it not been allowed to become thin. There will never be that fine mingling of lean and fat that makes the highly prized beef. The purpose of the baby beef clubs is not strictly to produce this quality of beef, but to feed the calf so that the beef it makes will be of superior quality, and to mature it in the shortest possible time.In this connection something of what the boys and girls of these Baby Beef Clubs have accomplished is of interest:
The winner of the Texas Baby Beef Grand Championship last year was Howard Hall of Midland, nine years old. He returned home from the National Feeder's and Breeder's Show at Fort Worth with $180 in money and a $500 silver cup. The Champion "Baby Beef" Grower of the World is Miss Ada Thomas of Covington county, Mississippi, who won her title a year ago in an independent baby beef club. She raised a heifer, "Lady Grace," and won the first prize in competition with seventy-five others.
When the prize calves were sold at public auction in the county round-up she was offered $395 for "Lady Grace" and refused to sell.

NORTH WALDO POMONA GRANGE.

The regular meeting of North Waldo Pomona Grange was held with Granite Grange,
North Searport, Wednesday, Nov. 10th.
The hall was prettily decorated with evergreens and cut flowers, the last of the autumn bloom.
Ropes of evergreen extended from the chandelier to the corners of the hall and nearly every table held a bouquet. A large number of patrons were present to enjoy the well known hospitality of Granite Grange.
The meeting was duly opened with Worthy Master
A. T. Nickerson presiding and every officer present. Six Granges were represented and reported. The regular routine of business received the attention of the members and a class of eight candidates was instructed in the degree of Pomona. A recess was then declared and all repaired to the dining hall to partake of the beautiful dinner which awaited them.The Grange reassembled in the fifth degree and Irvin Harris greeted the visitors in cordial words of welcome. E. H. Libby, Secretary of the Maine State Grange, pleasantly responded. Readings by Augusta Stevens and Margaret White a vocal solo by Winnifred Stinson and a monologue by Pauline Trundy were followed by a cornet solo by Charles Clements, who responded to an encore. Mr. Libby was called upon and gave an interesting talk, chiefly along Grange lines, interspersing his remarks with stories from his extensive repertoire.
The topic, "Can the woman on the farm hope to become as cultured as her city sister, and if so how can it be accomplished?" was opened by Velzora Nickerson in an able and comprehensive manner. She was followed by May Bussey, Jennie Dockham, Eliza Matthews, Jennie Webb, Winnifred Stinson, Augusta Stevens and Mrs. Webster. Many of the brothers participated in the discussion and the almost unanimously expressed opinion was that the woman on the farm can compete with her city sister in culture, education and refinement.After the customary acknowledgement for hospitality and entertainment, a very enjoyable meeting closed with the usual ceremonies. Excellent music by the choir was one of the pleasant features of the day.The next meeting will be with Morning Light Grange, Monroe, Dec. 8th, with an address of welcome by C. M. Moore and response by Clara York. E. T. Clifford of Winthrop, secretary of the executive committee of the State Grange, will address the meeting and the host Grange will furnish readings, music and a paper by Mrs. Helen Cooper. The program will conclude with a question box—questions contributed by the members.GET RID OF THOSE POISONS
IN YOUR SYSTEM!You will find Dr. King's New Life Pills a most satisfactory laxative in releasing the poisons from your system. Accumulated waste and poisons cause manifold ailments unless released. Dizziness, spots before the eyes, blackness and a miserable feeling generally are indications that you need Dr. King's New Life Pills. Take a dose tonight and you will experience grateful relief by morning. 25c.Miss Annie Fletcher entertained the French-boro Club last Saturday evening at her home on Pleasant St. A appetizing picnic supper was enjoyed at 6.30, followed by a very pleasant evening of auction. The members of the club gave the hostess a birthday present of gold as a token of their regards.—Camden Herald.

THE WAR NEWS.

Nothing of importance from the eastern or western fronts or the Dardanelles. Interest continues to center in the Balkans, where the situation is serious. The promised aid from Russia and Italy has not materialized and nothing has been officially made known as to the strength of the Allied forces in Serbia. It is feared they are not sufficient to overcome the combined forces of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey. The King of Greece is now practically a military dictator and is believed to have a secret pact with his brother-in-law the Kaiser. Roumania holds aloof and with Greece is playing a waiting game.

highly respected and dearly beloved citizens, member of Island Lodge, F. & A. M. Kind-hearted, sympathetic and generous, he will be years; by one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Coombs of Islesboro; three sons, Fred and Leighton W. of

LOOK TO YOUR STOMACHIt is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way A. A. Howes & Co., the popular druggists, are selling Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy.Never before have they had so large a number of customers tell them that a medicine has been successful as with Mi-o-na. People who a few months ago looked like walking skeletons have put on flesh and today are ruddy and vigorous with perfect digestion and good health.There is no longer any need for anyone suffering or making their friends suffer on account of dyspepsia. Mi-o-na can always be relied upon. The percentage of cures is so great that there is little risk to A. A. Howes & Co. in guaranteeing to return the money if the medicine does not relieve. And they stand ready to do so without any question.Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, dizzy feelings, and all forms of liver trouble are helped by Mi-o-na. A few days' treatment should show considerable gain in health while a complete cure often follows rapidly.

Robinson and Peter Bald Webber for assault and battery and highway robbery committed on Julius Fitzmaurice Braley took place in the Baptist vestry last Friday evening and proved highly entertaining to a large audience. The parts of the prisoners were taken by Geo. H. Robertson and Allen D. Webber, whose makeup ought to have been sufficient to secure conviction. Charles E. Rhoades and C. L. Wright as attorneys were brilliant in their examinations, etc., and the testimony of the witnesses called forth a great deal of applause. The jury disagreed and another trial will be held in the near future.

THE BIG GAME SEASON. Maine Hills of the City Drive store and Dr. Ansel W. Lathrop returned last Thursday night from a two weeks' hunting trip north of Ashland. Each shot and brought home a deer. Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Mudgett and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clay of Portland and Messrs. Lewis Bussey and Ralph Thorndike of Dixmont returned last Friday night from a two weeks' hunting trip to North-east Carry. Mr. Mudgett and bride brought home four deer—the latter shooting two. They each had a number of partridges. The arrivals of deer at Bangor last Thursday included two for S. W. Durost of Belfast. Chester Worthen, who spent the summer in Northern Maine as a member of the fire patrol has returned bringing a handsome buck.

THE SCHOOLS. At a special meeting of the school committee Wednesday evening, Nov. 10th, it was voted to sustain all the recommendations made by the chief of the fire department in regard to what should be done in the school buildings of the city to make them more safe in case of fire. These recommendations were printed in full in The Journal last week, and include changing the doors to swing outward, fire escapes and the installation of chemical extinguishers. In the McLellan building the entrance to the stable from the main building will be closed. A fire escape will be placed on the north side and all doors made to swing outward. The present front door will be replaced by a double door. Extinguishers have already been placed in this building. In all school buildings the keys to the furnace rooms shall be left during the day with the teachers. Fire drills will be held at frequent intervals. The new Peirce building is equipped with every fire protection necessary. The matter of the crowded condition in the first grade room in the McLellan school, where there are now 50 pupils, was left wholly with the superintendent, and if necessary he will divide it and procure another teacher. It was voted to allow the schools a holiday Friday following Thanksgiving, thus making the recess from Wednesday, Nov. 24th, to Nov. 29th. Supt. Wm. B. Woodbury and Dr. O. S. Vickery, school medical examiner, have completed the examination of the pupils of the rural schools as to the eyes, ears and throat and are now working during the early morning hours when possible on the city pupils, and hope to complete the work by the last of next week. Miss Ruth Kimball, teacher in the Hayford school, is out on account of a severe trouble with her eyes and Miss Julia M. Leary is substituting for her. A demonstrator from the Palmer system of penmanship has been in the local schools for the past few days and complimented some of the grades highly upon their work.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frederick W. Brown have closed their cottage, Sea Breeze, on the Allyn shore, and have taken an apartment in the Crawford house, Miller street, for the winter.

At the meeting next Tuesday evening of the Reading Department of the Woman's Club, Mrs. Amos Clement, president of the club, will give a report of the recent meeting of the Maine State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Belfast post office will be closed Thanksgiving, Thursday, Nov. 25th. The general delivery will be open one hour after the arrival of each mail. The city carriers will be excused at 12 noon and the rural carriers excused for the entire day.—Austin W. Keating, P. M.

In his garden off Cedar street Albert Parsons of this city raised a turnip of the Red Top Globe variety weighing nine and one half pounds and measuring 29 inches in circumference. No extra fertilizer was used and no special care given. The turnip just grew, like Mr. Finney's turnip in the poem that Longfellow did not write.

Mrs. J. G. Paul entertained the ladies of the Universalist Sewing Circle and Social Aid at the Woman's club room last Thursday afternoon. The time was spent socially and in work on material for their annual fair. About 40 were present. Mrs. Paul was assisted by Mrs. Frank I. Wilson and Miss E. Frances Abbott in serving sandwiches, assorted cake and coffee.

Mrs. Ira M. Cobe entertained a two table auction club of which she is a member at her Northport home Nov. 10th from 9.30 a. m. to 3.45 p. m. Lunch was served at 1 o'clock. Miss Maude E. Barker won the first prize, a sterling bud vase and Mrs. A. C. Burgess the second, a vinaigrette with a sterling cup. The other guests were Mrs. Elmer A. Sherman, Mrs. Joseph Tyler, Miss Charlotte W. Colburn, Mrs. James H. Howes and Mrs. Ben. Hazeltine.

What appeared to be dirt on the tiling of the post office corridor had attracted the attention of a box holder as it was directly under his box, and the other evening he pointed it out to Postmaster Keating, who laughed and then scraped his foot over it, showing that it was a discoloration in the marble, and not dirt; and he called attention to several other like places. Where were the $8 per day (and expenses) inspectors when this marble tiling was laid?

THE HOSPITAL AID. At a special meeting last Friday afternoon of the Woman's Hospital Aid it was decided to have their room wired for electricity and it was voted to let the room for card parties, etc. The annual donation week for the Waldo County hospital will be observed Thanksgiving week, with Mrs. E. A. Wilson, Mrs. W. L. West and Mrs. Essie P. Carle the committee in charge. Mrs. Ira M. Cobe has offered her winter home on Church street for the use of a large card party to be given early in the season.

THE UNITARIAN PARISH PARTY. The first parish party of the season under the auspices of the First Parish (Unitarian) society was held last Wednesday night in Memorial hall and was very largely attended. Supper was served at 6 o'clock with every table filled. Mrs. James S. Harriman, chairman of the social committee, was in charge, with a number of capable assistants. The menu included cold ham, jelly, pickles, hot rolls, chicken salad, assorted cake and coffee. From 7 to 8 was the "children's hour" and they had a merry time, playing games and dancing to music by Mrs. C. W. Westcott and Mrs. E. A. Wadsworth. At eight, with music by McKee, the dance opened and was enjoyed by about 25 couples until 11 o'clock. It was a very enjoyable affair.

STEAMER NOTES. The comparative statement of operations of the Eastern Steamship Corporation for the month of September and for the nine months ending Sept. 30, 1915 and 1914, as just given out by Calvin Austin, receiver, shows a considerable improvement in the financial situation of all the constituent companies. The net income of the Eastern lines for September was $32,164.86, a gain of $8,119.42 over the corresponding month of 1914, while the net income for the nine months was $140,465.37, a gain of $86,379.26 over the same period of 1914. Steamer Castine, which has completed her season's service out of Bangor, is now on the Castine route while the Golden Rod is being prepared for the winter's work. Capt. Ben Arty has succeeded Capt. Staples in command of the steamer Anna Belle on the Belfast-Brookline route.

A KITCHEN-SHOWER. Last Thursday a kitchen shower was given in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Ida May Robinson and True Elms at the home of Miss Robinson's sister, Mrs. Roy Sholes, Waldo avenue, and was attended by about 32 friends of the bride-to-be. It was a complete surprise to the guest of honor, who was astonished when ushered into the dining room to find heaped upon the table a huge pile of packages of all shapes and sizes. Everything in line of kitchen dishes and linen was found as bundle after bundle was unwrapped by the delighted guest. The remainder of the evening was devoted to whist, Mrs. Rena Sholes winning the first prize, a pair of beauty pins daintily wrought, while the consolation, a Japanese cup and saucer, went to Mrs. M. A. Johnson. Delicious refreshments were served and the affair was one of much enjoyment.

Has Faith in Quick Remedy for Catarrh

A. A. Howes & Co. Guarantee That Hyomei Will Relieve the Worst Cases of Catarrh in Belfast.

When one of the most reputable concerns in Belfast guarantees that a medicine will produce benefit or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes for the merit of that remedy. It is in this way that A. A. Howes & Co. are selling Hyomei, the treatment that has helped so many cases of both acute and chronic catarrh in Belfast and vicinity. Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a spray or a lotion that must be rubbed in. It is an oil, the air of which you just breathe in your nose, throat and lungs by the aid of an inhaler that comes with every outfit. Benefit will usually be seen from the very first treatment. This air destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches and purifies the blood with the additional ozone it supplies. It banishes catarrh of the head and throat and respiratory organs. Wherever these mucous membranes contain catarrhal germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing. The complete Hyomei outfit is inexpensive and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment. Remember that if Hyomei does not relieve you A. A. Howes & Co. will refund your money.

THE BIBLE AS LITERATURE.

As a piece of literature, it stands alone, both in its antiquity and in the variety of its contents. It is a collection of writings covering a period of about a thousand years, for the oldest passages embedded in the oldest books may date from the eleventh or tenth century B. C.,—some few are probably still older,—and the latest parts of the New Testament from the end of the first or beginning of the second century A. D. And how diverse in substance and form are the books that compose this collection! In those that present the annals of the people of Israel there are many passages that are models of prose narrative—terse, direct, exact, yet imaginative in their forms of expression. The finest of these are found in the books of Genesis, Numbers, Judges, Samuel, and Kings. The story of Joseph in Egypt, those of Eli and Samuel, of David and Abimelech, of the consultation with the prophets before the kings of Israel and Judah went up to Ramoth Gilead, and the battle fought there, of the journey of Elijah the prophet, his journey to the wilderness of Sinai, his return and contest with the prophets of Baal, have a vivid quality that modern pens cannot produce. One has to go for something of the same order to such primitive literature as the Homeric poems, the sagas of Iceland. When a man today tries to reproduce the fresh and direct simplicity of early narrative, he is almost inevitably drawn into a conscious old-fashionedness or preciosity. He is not natural, but artificial. He is an imitator, and imitation makes him artificial.—James Bryce, in The Youth's Companion.

COUGHS THAT ARE STOPPED!

Careful people see that they are stopped. Dr. King's New Discovery is a remedy of tried merit. It has held its own on the market for 46 years. Youth and old age testify to its soothing and healing qualities. Pneumonia and lung troubles are often caused by delay of treatment. Dr. King's New Discovery stops these hacking coughs and relieves the grippe tendencies. Money back if it fails. 50c and $1.00.

RECENT DEATHS.

Capt. James Staples, formerly of Deer Isle—we believe he was born on Bradbury Island—died last week at Satoru Harbor, New York, and the remains arrived at Stonington, Friday where the funeral was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred A. Torrey. Interment was at Mt. Adams.—Deer Isle Messenger.

Manasseh Smith, eldest son of the late Hon. Manasseh L. Smith, died Nov. 10th at his residence in Woodford after a long illness. Mr. Smith was born in Warren, Me., Dec. 24, 1841, and entered Bowdoin College in 1858, the year in which the family removed to Portland. Later he studied law in his father's office, and after his father's death in 1885 he formed a law partnership with Hon. Thomas B. Reed and later with Hon. George E. Bird. In 1871 he married Miss Georgiana W. Hall of Quebec, with six daughters and one son survive him.

James H. Walton, a native of Castine, died Sunday at his home in Newburyport, Mass., aged 77 years. His parents moved from Castine to Spruce Head Island when he was a child. When he was 12 years of age he enlisted as powder boy on the U. S. frigate Hartford, later Admiral Farragut's flagship, and cruised about the world for four years. He then enlisted in the 1st Maine regiment and served during the remainder of the Civil War. Following the war, he entered the revenue service and served on the old Woodbury and the McCulloch. He joined Marine Lodge, F. & A. M., in this town. He leaves a widow, two sons, two daughters, and a brother, Paul M. Walton of Deer Isle.—Deer Isle Messenger.

News has been received of the death in New Orleans of Deborah Allen, widow of the late Richard A. Miliken. Mrs. Miliken was born in Unity, Maine, in 1824, the daughter of Henry and Margaret (Pattie) Farwell and was the last survivor of a family of 21 children. She was a sister of the late Hon. Nathan A. Farwell of Rockland, at whose home she spent several years before going to New Orleans in 1854 to be with her brother. She then resided in New Orleans until her brother broke out she met Mr. Miliken in Tennessee. Before the war was over he obtained a furlough, went to Lumpkin, Ga., where the family of Charles A. Farwell was refugeing, and there he and Miss Farwell were married. At the close of the war Mr. and Mrs. Miliken returned to New Orleans, where Mr. Miliken resumed his operations in the sugar brokerage business. They had one daughter, Fannie, who died in 1888. Mr. Miliken died in 1896 and in 1899 Mrs. Miliken erected to his memory the Richard Miliken Memorial Hospital, devoted to the treatment and care of poor people. At the time of her death Mrs. Miliken was senior partner in the firm of Miliken & Farwell, sugar brokers. Mrs. Miliken formerly passed her summers in Rockland but has not visited there since the early '90s. The last few years, on account of failing health, her summers were spent at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Miliken, in Deer Isle. Lorenzo C. Greenlaw died Nov. 31 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Effie Salisbury, in Deer Isle. Mr. Greenlaw had been in failing health for about a year and since last July had been confined to his home on West street. Two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Greenlaw went to the home of their daughter to remain during the winter, and for several days previous to his death they appeared to be improving. At the time of his death Mr. Greenlaw was 70 years of age. He was a well known and highly respected citizen. Nearly all of this time he had been employed about the lime sheds. Previous to his illness he had for several years been a trusted employee of the Rockland & Rockport Lime Co. He lived a quiet, unassuming life, devoted to his family. Besides a wife he leaves three daughters and one son, Mrs. Effie Salisbury, Mrs. E. A. Champney of Augusta and Benjamin L. Greenlaw to Woodford, Me. He is also survived by two sisters and one brother: Mrs. Eliza Crockett of Northport, and Mrs. Mary Wooster of Camden and Bryon Greenlaw of Belfast. He was for many years a member of the Baptist church and of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 82, F. & A. M. Funerals were held Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Effie Salisbury, E. A. Burpee of Rockland officiating. The remains of St. Paul's Lodge attended in a body and performed their impressive burial service. The bearers were Charles Gregory, E. John Erickson, Charles Larson and George Huntley. Interment was in Ambsbury Hill cemetery.

The Boy Scouts Used for Fakery.

Among the dressed up dime and nickel novels that are sold to gullible parents for fifty cents are many stories that deal with the Boy Scouts. In the December issue of the Woman's Home Companion Walter Prichard Eaton says: "Needless to say no true Scout Master would buy them for his troop. In them Boy Scouts fly over the Rocky Mountains in aeroplanes as easily as a real scout rides his bicycle to school; they capture robber bands in Mexico; they range from the Arctic ice to the jungles of the Amazon without the slightest trouble."

THE ONLY POSSIBLE PEACE.

The Germans will shortly be at President Wilson outwardly bluffing but really whining for peace, and we shall have a German-made campaign in and out of the American press for peace. David Starr Jordan and others will be preaching. "This slaughter has gone far enough. It must cease; humanity demands it," etc.

The American people must be prepared for this. It will be another phase of the German campaign in this country. Its former manifestation was in blowing up American munitions factories, the sinking of American and English ships carrying Americans, attempts to kill American bankers, fomenting strikes and all the other acts that an alien-hearted race can do here.

There can be no peace acceptable to humanity until the Kaiser and his progeny are put off the German throne and his Junkers are squelched. The great German people should be brought to realize this. The experience of Napoleon III. of France and his gang should be a lesson to them.—Lawrence Godkin in the New York World.

PROBATE NOTICES.

New Probate Laws

The last legislature amended Chapters 66 and 69 of the Revised Statutes requiring executors, administrators and guardians to give public notice of their appointment. Chapter 66 is amended so as to read as follows: "Section 40. Every executor or administrator, within three months after his appointment or within such further time, not exceeding three months, as the judge allows, shall publish notice of his appointment to be published in some newspaper published in the county where the deceased last dwelt, if in the judge's writing directs, if not, approved and allowed."

Section nine of chapter sixty-nine of the Revised Statutes is amended by inserting after the word "guardians" in the first line of said section, the following words, "shall give notice of their appointment and make return thereof to the probate court in the manner provided by law relating to notices of appointment by executors and administrators."

At a Probate Court held at Belfast, within and for the County of Waldo, on the 9th day of November, A. D. 1915.

J. M. FOSTER of Burnham, in said County of Waldo, deceased, having presented a petition praying that the will of said deceased be proved and allowed, and that letters of administration with the will annexed, be granted to J. M. Foster of said Burnham.

HEALTHIER CHILDREN CAMPAIGN ADVOCATED.

Dr. True of Auburn, Maine, in considering the marvelous success of Healthier Children Campaigns in scores of cities and towns, sets down some mighty good advice that should be of value to every mother.

Here's how Dr. True puts it: "Child health, like charity, begins at home. There are many instances when a mother overlooks some small illness or notices them only as ordinary child ailments. For instance, a child is ill-humored, has a foul breath, is constipated and exhibits a host of other small and hardly noticeable ailments. In fact, these lead to numerous complications and, if the cause is not removed, the result often means disastrous ailments."

Dr. True has made a thorough study of children's diseases and attributes most of these ailments to the one disease—worms. He claims that if every child is subject to this disease, and that if mothers would take precautions against it, children's afflictions would be greatly reduced. And not only children are susceptible to this detriment, but adults also.

Dr. True's unexcelled knowledge of this dreaded disease, called worms, has enabled him to produce a remedy that will expel these "life-sappers." It is known as "Dr. True's Elfix," the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, and sells at all leading drug stores. This old family remedy has been on the market since 1851.

WAR BOOMS SHIPBUILDING.

Shipbuilding in the United States has been given such an impetus by the European war, according to the annual report of Lloyd's Register of Shipping, that there is at present under construction and on order, in this country, the largest tonnage on record.

As a result of this increase and similar activity in Japan, Holland and Scandinavian countries, the tonnage of vessels entered in Lloyd's Register at the close of the year ending June 30, 1915, was 300,000 in excess of that of the corresponding date the year before. This was in spite of the losses to shipping as a result of the war and the great falling off in construction in Great Britain and the other belligerent countries.

The vessels actually completed and entered in Lloyd's Register during the year ending June 30, 1915, numbered 571, of 1,295,623 tons, of which 536 were steamers or motor vessels, of a tonnage of 1,289,827, and 35 were sailing vessels, of 576 tons. Of the total, 864,247 tons, or about 67 percent, were built for the British Empire.

The past year has witnessed a further increase in the use of wireless telegraphy and submarine signalling in the world's mercantile marine, there being now recorded 2,939 vessels fitted with wireless telegraphic apparatus and 947 fitted with submarine signalling apparatus.

The Northampton (Mass.) Gazette of July 1st says: "The Gazette often prints extracts from E. W. Howe's Monthly. There are no advertisements, it is not run for profit. The editor used to run a daily paper, and it appears from his writings that he got tired of being hampered by the perennial money side of things and made up his mind to get an opportunity to say what he wanted without fear of the consequences. He does it in this magazine, and he is very clever; we know of no writer so clever. Howe's books of travel are among the most valuable and interesting in our library. You begin one of his books and you keep reading it till you are done. Some people do not see anything but trees and buildings and pictures when they travel, but Howe sees the invisible things. Get his books and magazines and read them, and when you have done this you will sit down and write a letter to the Gazette thanking you for the advice. His Monthly costs ten cents a year; it is worth ten dollars."

Quality Potatoes Demanded for Export to South America.

[Exclusive to The Republican-Journal.]

"New England potato growers should take advantage of the export trade to South America opened since the beginning of the European war. Argentine is now looking to the United States for large quantities of potatoes and stands ready to pay quality prices for quality goods," says Prof. Henry G. Bell, formerly professor of Agronomy and Manager of Farms, University of Maine.

"Export potatoes must be of high quality, of the table grade, free from disease and mechanical injury, and must be packed in bushel crates. Germany has been sending quality potatoes to Argentine and getting high prices. Now the trade is willing to pay the price, but expects quality," says Professor Bell, who has been studying the potato situation in the United States for years.

"Proper soil treatment and the balancing of plantfood is essential to the growing of potatoes of high quality. Potatoes make the greater part of their growth within sixty days and they must have plenty of food while growing," explains Professor Bell. "There is also a limited market in South America for small, sound potatoes, ranging from two to four ounces in weight. They must be uniform and graded carefully."

The Use of Phosphates.

Director William F. Brooks of the Massachusetts Experiment Station has just issued a bulletin on "Phosphates in Massachusetts Agriculture" which should be secured by every farmer in New England interested in bettering the fertility of his farm and increasing the yields of his crops.

The use of raw rock and the dissolved or quickly available form of phosphates are compared by Director Brooks, as a result of extensive experiments carried on under his direction. He warns farmers against the general use of raw rock phosphates and advises the more soluble and available forms, such as are generally found in large quantities in the mixed and special fertilizers on the markets.

"Natural rock phosphates are unadapted to the conditions of our agriculture. What is needed is frequent (and in the case of hood crops) annual applications of dissolved phosphates," says Prof. Brooks in his summary. "High grade fertilizers with a large amount of water soluble phosphoric acid are most favorable to a quick start and early maturity." Copies of the bulletin may be secured by writing the Experiment Station, Amherst, Mass.

New England Should Grow, Rather Than Buy, Feeds and Small Grains.

The New England States have been paying out millions to western farmers each year for small grains, instead of raising them at home. Her poultry eats the profit or loss made by each animal in the herd. One third of the cows in the country do not make a profit, according to the Government reports.

Why not apply the same system to the farms and fields of New England? By taking "Babecock tests" of each field, the farmer is able to tell exactly what profit and loss is made each year. A record of the profits from year to year is also important. The expense for fertilizer, labor, seed and drainage can be computed over a number of years. Better farm management includes the upbuilding of the soil, just as dairying includes the upbuilding of the dairy herd. Know your farm is as important as to know your cows.

Government Will Test Your Seed. The U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington offers to test your seed. Mr. Farmer and to give you information concerning the (a) truthness to name, (b) presence of adulterants, (c) proportion of chaff and dirt present, (d) proportion of weed seeds present (e) chaff and dirt present (f) pure seed that will grow and (g) region or origin. Proper cultural methods, application of manure and fertilizers and a season's hard work is lost if the seed used is not good. Send a sample to the Seed Laboratory, Washington, D. C.

The Flora Condon Collision Case. PORTLAND, Nov. 10. No satisfactory agreement having been reached as to which party was responsible for the collision occurring in this harbor several weeks since, when the three-masted schooner Flora Condon was run into by the steamer Governor Cobb and badly damaged, the sailing craft remains tied up at the wharf of the marine railway at South Portland awaiting repairs. Both parties to the collision have made their reports to the U. S. steamship inspectors, Messrs. Thompson and Trevett, Capt. Mitchell, the master of the Condon, claiming his fog horn was going at the time of the accident, which statement is denied by the officers of the Cobb. The steamboat inspectors have not yet rendered a decision in the matter, and the case will probably come before the courts for a settlement.

A THOROUGH TEST. One to Convince the Most Skeptical Belfast Reader. The test of time is the test that counts. Doan's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action.

The following case is typical. Belfast residents should be convinced. The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete.

Testimony like this cannot be ignored. W. J. Heal, retired farmer, 60 Miller street, Belfast, says: "I had considerable trouble from my back and kidneys. At times my back ached so that it was difficult for me to stoop and if I did so, I could hardly straighten up again. I had, or I thought I had, kidney complaint, too. Doan's Kidney Pills soon removed the backache and corrected the other difficulties. Whenever my kidneys have needed a little toning up since, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have put them in good shape."

A Second Statement. OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mr. Heal said: "Doan's Kidney Pills have proved their worth to me by giving me great relief at different times. I give them my highest praise."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Heal has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Plan New England Chamber of Agriculture. Plans for the formation of a New England Chamber of Agriculture are being completed, as a result of an organized movement by agricultural men in the six States. It is to be composed of delegates elected from the State agricultural boards, colleges, granges, creameries, milk producers, potato growers and other organized groups of farmers, and will have for its object the bettering of farming conditions in New England. Dairying, diversified farming and orcharding will be forwarded and marketed problems given special attention.

Largest Potato Yield Grown in 1899. "What is the largest yield of potatoes ever grown on one acre?" is the question frequently asked experiment station men by farmers. Prof. Henry G. Bell, formerly professor of Agronomy at Maine University, believes the yield of 738 1/2 bushels, raised by Mr. Coy of Aroostook county, Maine, in 1899 is the largest ever grown in New England or in the United States by a commercial grower. Teach Better Farming with the "Movies."

Enter the "movies" into the agricultural progress of the country. The last word in better farming work is that the "flickers" are to be utilized to teach farmers the value and results of crop rotation, use of fertilizers, methods of caring for the crops and harvesting. A movement is on foot to bring out 50 films for use throughout the Central States. Give Your Fields the Babecock Test.

Methods used by dairymen can be applied to farm lands with profit. Through the Babecock test, dairymen are able to tell just how much milk and butterfat each cow produces. They are then able to determine, by comparison with their feed record costs and overhead expenses, the profit or loss made by each animal in the herd. One third of the cows in the country do not make a profit, according to the Government reports.

Why not apply the same system to the farms and fields of New England? By taking "Babecock tests" of each field, the farmer is able to tell exactly what profit and loss is made each year. Plan New England Chamber of Agriculture. Plans for the formation of a New England Chamber of Agriculture are being completed, as a result of an organized movement by agricultural men in the six States. It is to be composed of delegates elected from the State agricultural boards, colleges, granges, creameries, milk producers, potato growers and other organized groups of farmers, and will have for its object the bettering of farming conditions in New England. Dairying, diversified farming and orcharding will be forwarded and marketed problems given special attention.

Largest Potato Yield Grown in 1899. "What is the largest yield of potatoes ever grown on one acre?" is the question frequently asked experiment station men by farmers. Prof. Henry G. Bell, formerly professor of Agronomy at Maine University, believes the yield of 738 1/2 bushels, raised by Mr. Coy of Aroostook county, Maine, in 1899 is the largest ever grown in New England or in the United States by a commercial grower. Teach Better Farming with the "Movies."

Enter the "movies" into the agricultural progress of the country. The last word in better farming work is that the "flickers" are to be utilized to teach farmers the value and results of crop rotation, use of fertilizers, methods of caring for the crops and harvesting. A movement is on foot to bring out 50 films for use throughout the Central States. Give Your Fields the Babecock Test.

Methods used by dairymen can be applied to farm lands with profit. Through the Babecock test, dairymen are able to tell just how much milk and butterfat each cow produces. They are then able to determine, by comparison with their feed record costs and overhead expenses, the profit or loss made by each animal in the herd. One third of the cows in the country do not make a profit, according to the Government reports.

Why not apply the same system to the farms and fields of New England? By taking "Babecock tests" of each field, the farmer is able to tell exactly what profit and loss is made each year. A record of the profits from year to year is also important. The expense for fertilizer, labor, seed and drainage can be computed over a number of years. Better farm management includes the upbuilding of the soil, just as dairying includes the upbuilding of the dairy herd. Know your farm is as important as to know your cows.

Government Will Test Your Seed. The U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington offers to test your seed. Mr. Farmer and to give you information concerning the (a) truthness to name, (b) presence of adulterants, (c) proportion of chaff and dirt present, (d) proportion of weed seeds present (e) chaff and dirt present (f) pure seed that will grow and (g) region or origin. Proper cultural methods, application of manure and fertilizers and a season's hard work is lost if the seed used is not good. Send a sample to the Seed Laboratory, Washington, D. C.

The Flora Condon Collision Case. PORTLAND, Nov. 10. No satisfactory agreement having been reached as to which party was responsible for the collision occurring in this harbor several weeks since, when the three-masted schooner Flora Condon was run into by the steamer Governor Cobb and badly damaged, the sailing craft remains tied up at the wharf of the marine railway at South Portland awaiting repairs. Both parties to the collision have made their reports to the U. S. steamship inspectors, Messrs. Thompson and Trevett, Capt. Mitchell, the master of the Condon, claiming his fog horn was going at the time of the accident, which statement is denied by the officers of the Cobb. The steamboat inspectors have not yet rendered a decision in the matter, and the case will probably come before the courts for a settlement.

A THOROUGH TEST. One to Convince the Most Skeptical Belfast Reader. The test of time is the test that counts. Doan's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action.

The following case is typical. Belfast residents should be convinced. The testimony is confirmed—the proof complete.

Testimony like this cannot be ignored. W. J. Heal, retired farmer, 60 Miller street, Belfast, says: "I had considerable trouble from my back and kidneys. At times my back ached so that it was difficult for me to stoop and if I did so, I could hardly straighten up again. I had, or I thought I had, kidney complaint, too. Doan's Kidney Pills soon removed the backache and corrected the other difficulties. Whenever my kidneys have needed a little toning up since, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have put them in good shape."

A Second Statement. OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mr. Heal said: "Doan's Kidney Pills have proved their worth to me by giving me great relief at different times. I give them my highest praise."

Capt. Harry F. Hieborn, intending to leave for home last Friday, has been notified by his company, the Red D Line, that he has been promoted from the command of the steamship Phila, to that of the Caracas, the largest ship in service of that line, and his vacation is extended a fortnight pending the arrival of that steamer in New York. Congratulations to the captain upon this merited compliment to his capacity, judgment and valuable services to the company.

Mrs. Jennie M. Bragg left Bangor Nov. 11th for Boston, and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Kimball in Brookline, Mass., until her departure by steamer, Nov. 13th, for Jacksonville, Florida, in company with Capt. and Mrs. James Pendleton of Park. Her many Stockton friends are rejoicing in this degree of improvement from her recent surgical operation which warranted her attempting such a journey, hoping the spring may bring her to Stockton much farther strong than then.

The Stockton has again opened its doors to the public and the blaze of its electric lights is welcomed by our citizens. The proprietor and wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Humiston, and young son, Fred, propose making it an all-the-year-around hotel—terms, $200 per day—catering to the commercial travelers and summer visitors and first class patronage generally. Both Mr. and Mrs. Humiston have had large experience in the hotel business in various States (coming here from Canada, N. H.) and hope to make a success of this enterprise. Miss Imogene Whitmore, who has been their hotel guest for a year, accompanied them here. They are expecting a house party from New York to spend the Christmas holidays with them.

The many friends of Mrs. Robert Killman, who is now living with her son Ney in Livermore Falls, will regret to hear of her failing health. "Aunt Sarah," as she is lovingly called by most of the towns people, is held in warm remembrance, and a full measure of love and sympathy go out to her.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd of Frankfort were host and hostess for the "Sixty-three Club" last Saturday evening, postponed from the regular Friday night meeting because of the rain. A large number assembled, and were royally entertained. A "baked bean" supper was served, a new feature which proved very popular, particularly with the males.

Mrs. Nathan Hunt of Morrill spoke in the schoolhouse at Evans' Corner last Sunday from the text in Psalms 19th: "Prepare to meet thy God," presenting the truth therein contained in a plain and pleasing manner so that even the children, of whom a large number were present, were much interested and instructed. The superintendent then organized "A Trip to Palestine," choosing two captains, Perley Hustus and Ralph Simmons; and two mates and a purser. The captain was the last to get into port, furnishing the entertainment for the other side.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's.

Uric Acid Poison Undermines Health

When uric acid becomes seated in the kidneys, bowels, and blood, these organs begin to decay. Rheumatism (not a "cure-all" but a specialist's prescription for all forms of rheumatism only), overcomes this condition. It limbers up the stiffened joints, reduces swellings, and quickly cleans the poison from the diseased organs.
